MONA LISA GOES GREEN:
EXPLORING THE INTERSECTION OF ART & ECOLOGY

Instructor: Shannon Tyman

Strange as it may sound, the idea of nature is getting in the way of properly ecological forms of culture, philosophy, politics and art.

– Timothy Morton (2007)

Do something that is: visually striking, socially radical, conceptually and contextually sensitive, sustainable, in the public domain (outside of art venues), and hurts no living thing—something that will change the world. Good luck!

– Lucy R. Lippard (2012)

Course Description

Experimentation is at the heart of science so it comes as no surprise that there is a rich intersection between art and ecology. In this course we will investigate this exciting relationship. We will look at the natural world through the eyes of artists, scientists, and artist-scientists. We will ask ourselves: how do science and art approach the natural world differently? Throughout the course we will expand the traditional natural science definition of ecology. A significant portion of the course will be spent sharing the work of artists responding to ecological concerns such as climate change, loss of wildlife habitat, and industrial pollution. Is artistic work about nature useful as a means to educate? Does it also help us “solve” environmental problems? As a class we will consider the role of art in today’s ecological crises.

Core

The Core program consists of a coordinated series of courses that represent the various disciplines in the university. This course, along with the others in your cohort, fulfills one of the university’s general education requirements in each of the areas of knowledge plus composition. The courses are designed to both support and challenge you to develop the critical thinking, writing, research, and analytical skills you’ll need at UWT while introducing you to relevant topics in the social sciences, humanities, and sciences.
Learning Objectives
By the end of this course, students should demonstrate an ability to:
• situate one's self in relation to a broader human context.
• critically read an artistic, literary, or historical text or artifact.
• analyze a text or artifact by applying a theoretical or aesthetic framework.

Students will also develop skills in:
• inquiry & problem solving: collect, evaluate, and analyze information and resources to solve problems or answer questions.
• synthesis & context: make meaningful connections among assignments and readings in order to develop a sense of the ‘big picture.’
• analysis: identify, analyze, and summarize/represent the key elements of a text.
• expression of ideas: express ideas clearly in writing and speaking in order to synthesize and evaluate information before presenting it.
• global perspective: interact with concepts, ideas, and processes related to the interdependences between personal, local, and global relationships.
• diversity: think outside of cultural norms and values, including their own perspectives, to critically engage the larger world.

Required Texts and Materials
Available at the UW-T bookstore.
• Weintraub, Linda. To Life!: Eco Art in Pursuit of a Sustainable Planet, 2012.

Canvas and UWT Email Required
Check your UW email and the course Canvas website daily for updates. The announcement page will provide important information and guide you to other resources. Canvas and email will also be used extensively for communication, announcements, assignments, lecture notes, exchange of ideas, and feedback.

Academic Standards/Plagiarism
All student work must be free of plagiarism. Plagiarism is defined in the University catalog and in the Student Handbook. Consult your professor if you have any questions.

A major part of your experience in the class will be reading, synthesizing, and using the knowledge and ideas of others. It is the responsibility of the faculty to help you in this process and to be certain you learn to credit the work of others upon which you draw. To plagiarize is to appropriate and to pass off, as one's own ideas, writing or works of another. Plagiarism is no less of a misconduct violation than vandalism or assault. Ignorance of proper documentation procedures is the usual cause of plagiarism. This ignorance does not excuse the act. Students are responsible for learning how and when to document and attribute resources used in preparing a written or oral presentation.

For more information, please refer to the “Student Academic Responsibility” document prepared by the Committee on Academic Conduct in the College of Arts and Sciences, UW Seattle:

Library
The UWT Library provides resources and services to support students at all levels of expertise. We guide students through the research process, helping them learn how to develop effective research strategies and find and evaluate appropriate resources. For more information about the Library and its services, see:

http://www.tacoma.washington.edu/library/

Electronic Devices
Electronic devices (including, but not limited to, cell phones, pagers, laptops, and personal digital assistants) may only be used in the classroom with the permission of the instructor. Activities that are non-relevant to the course, such as checking/sending email, playing games, and surfing the web, are considered disruptive activities when class is in session.

Student Health Services
Student Health Services (SHS) is committed to providing compassionate, convenient, and affordable health care for University of Washington Tacoma students, from care for illness and minor injury to women’s health and preventative medicine, including vaccination services. Insurance is not required. Funded by UW Tacoma student fees, office visits are provided free of charge. Treatment plans may incur costs, such as medications, labs, or vaccines, most of which are offered at discounted rates. For more information, please visit www.tacoma.uw.edu/shs or email at uwtshs@uw.edu. If you have questions or would like to schedule an appointment, please call (253) 692-5811 or stop by SHS at the Laborer’s Hall on Market Street.

Counseling Center (Student Success)
The Counseling Center offers short-term, problem-focused counseling to UW Tacoma students who may feel overwhelmed by the responsibilities of college, work, family, and relationships. Counselors are available to help students cope with stresses and personal issues that may interfere with their ability to perform in school. The service is provided confidentially and without additional charge to currently enrolled undergraduate and graduate students. To schedule an appointment, please call 692-4522 or stop by the Student Counseling Center (SCC), located in MAT 354.

Safety Escort Program
For your safety, UW Tacoma encourages students, faculty, staff and visitors to use the Safety Escort Program. Campus Safety Officers are available to walk you to your car or other campus destinations during the following hours: Monday - Thursday — 6 a.m. to 11 p.m.; Friday — 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. The service is free of charge. During busy periods, the Campus Safety Officer may ask you to meet in a common location as to facilitate escorting multiple people. Dial 253-692-4416 to request a Safety Escort.

In case of a fire alarm
Take your valuables and leave the building. Plan to return to class once the alarm has stopped. Do not return until you have received an all clear from somebody "official," the web or email.

In case of an earthquake
DROP, COVER, and HOLD. Once the shaking stops, take your valuables and leave the building. Do not plan to return for the rest of the day. Do not return to the building until you have received an all clear from somebody "official," the web, or email.

Inclement Weather
Call (253) 383-INFO to determine whether campus operations have been suspended. If not, but driving conditions remain problematic, call the professor's office number. This number should provide information on whether a particular class will be held or not, and/or the status of pending assignments. If the first two numbers have been contacted and the student is still unable to determine whether a class will be held, or the student has a part-time instructor who does not have an office phone or contact number, call the program office number for updated information.
