MILITARY DEPENDENTS Spouses and children who meet one of the following qualify for resident tuition.

- Dependents of active duty members stationed in Washington or dependents of Washington National Guard members (National Guard members do not have to be on active duty). The dependent does not need to live in Washington. If the active duty member is stationed out-of-state, the student maintains resident student status as long as they are either:
  - Continuously enrolled or Admitted to an institution before the re-stationing and enrolled in the institution for the term the student was admitted.
- Dependents who are entitled to transferred post-9/11 GI Bill® benefits based on their relationship to someone on active duty in the uniformed services.
- Veteran dependents (spouse and children) using the Post 9/11 GI Bill® who live in Washington.
- Dependents who are entitled to VA educational assistance benefits based on their relationship to a deceased member of the uniformed services who died in the line of duty.
- Dependents of a veteran who separated from the uniformed services with at least ten years of honorable service (separation does not have to be from active duty).
- People who live in Washington and are dependents of active duty members who live in Washington and are stationed in an Oregon county that borders Washington. If the active duty member moves out of Washington or is stationed outside of an Oregon county that borders Washington, the student maintains resident student status as long as they are either:
  - Continuously enrolled or Admitted to an institution before the re-stationing and enrolled in the institution for the term the student was admitted.
- Dependents who are entitled to VA educational assistance benefits based on their relationship to a veteran. Neither the dependent nor the veteran need to live in Washington. The dependent does not need to be actively using educational benefits to qualify. Dependents must also meet all of the following:
  - They must enter school within three years of the veteran's separation from the military.
  - Veteran must have at least 90 days of active duty service as a member of the uniformed services.
  - The veteran must have separated from the military with any period of honorable service (separation does not have to be from active duty).
  - Dependent must be eligible for one of the following VA educational assistance benefits
  - Dependent maintains resident student status as long as they stay continuously enrolled.
  - Does not apply to dependents of veterans who have a dishonorable discharge from the uniformed services unless the dependent is receiving VA educational assistance benefits.

I certify that I meet the criteria listed and will notify the University of Washington if my status should change. I will submit copies of any pertinent materials including: PCS Orders or current LES, DD214 Member 4, Certificate of Eligibility, and Military ID.
