For my internship, I have worked as a full stack developer at X2 Analytic, a start-up tech company. During my internship, I have received a lot of tasks to help me to get used to how to work in an industry company. In the process, I also had a chance to learn about web-services, NodeJS, HTML, CSS, API, UI/UX design, and project management. Moreover, I have improved my communication skills during the time I have worked with my team to develop our project. In essence, I have learned a lot of things that would help me to find a job in the future.
