

School of Urban Studies (SUS)
Temporary Distance Learning Policy

May 2, 2022

In AY22/23, the temporary SUS distance learning policy is as follows:

Modality: iTech trained faculty may teach in any of the four modalities defined by the Tri-Campus Digital Learning Alliance (in-person, hybrid, synchronous remote, and asynchronous remote). For in-person courses, SUS will continue to use 61 as the minimum percentage of sessions that should be held in-person.

Training and Certification: Faculty teaching in any modality other than in-person, must have completed iTech training or an equivalent program or obtained determination of online competency from the SUS Dean's Office.

Assessment: During AY22/23, DL assessment is not required of faculty who have been approved as described above.