THIS IS YARROW

Yarrow is an engineering student on the UWT campus. She likes to play video games in her downtime and sleep often since she works full time. She is a bright student, full of ambition and drive to become one of the best engineers out there.

PROBLEMS

Users face difficulties both at home and in public with getting period products.

There is a lack of awareness of where current products are on campus.

There is no campus infrastructure to support the sustainability of period products.

Menstruation Stations

Find out where free period products are on campus here:

The Period Project Petition

Petition Mission	IRIZE's mission is to eliminate period poverty on the UWT campus, by providing access to free period products, long-term. With your help, IRIZE and the ASUWT will work with the Department of Integrated Facilities Management and the Chancellor's Cabinet to positively developing future policy around menstrual product access for all.
Petition Action	To push this project forward, we need student voices like yours! By signing below, you will help us: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Provide at least 1 location in every building on campus with free menstrual products• Ensure that UW Tacoma Promotes locations of menstrual products on campus• Provide long-term funding and sustainability of menstrual products
